Greetings!

I would like to make you aware of a special kids camp coming up October 3, 2015 at St. Ambrose University.

I am conference chair for an area computer security conference, CornCon. Along with the adult conference, we are also holding a 1-day kids "hacking" camp. What this really means is we are teaching the kids about making and breaking things, and why curiosity is important! We teach them about the ethical use of technology, as well as how to solder, programming in "Minecraft", and we have other fun activities and contests. All the kids get t-shirts and there will be lots of awards and prizes.

The cost is very reasonable, $35 if you register by 9/18 or $50 after. This includes admission and lunch for the child and an adult guardian. Because of university rules, a legal guardian must supervise every child throughout the day. We worked hard to keep this total cost down. (Adults may also purchase a full conference badge, which will allow them to take their child to the adult presentations.)

We open registration that Saturday morning at 8am and the Welcome Presentation is at 9am. We close with an Awards Ceremony and should be finished by 6pm. Door prizes will also be given during the closing and you must be present to win.

Please check out the flyer, below, and contact me if you have any questions. We expect to sell out of our 50 tickets quickly, so please go to our website today and register!

Sincerely,

Dr. John Johnson
